This is an opportunity for sport and recreation organisations to hear from, and consult with, Susan McLean, Australia's leading cyber safety expert.

This forum will:

- Explore current trends and challenges for the sport and recreation industry in relation to the use and misuse of technology.
- Discuss strategies to address these challenges.
- Discuss scenarios and solutions relating to cyber safety in sport.
- Present a cyber safety policy template available to organisations.

Participants will be given the opportunity to email questions prior to this event for integration into the forum.

Presenter – Susan McLean

Susan McLean is a member of the National Centre against Bullying (NCAB), is Australia's leading cyber safety expert and the only person in the country who is experienced and qualified in the field. She has extensive international training and successfully completed the University Certificate in Child Safety on the Internet from the University of Central Lancashire (United Kingdom). She consults to a wide range of government and sporting organisations. Her vast knowledge has helped her gain recognition as a sought-after advisor and media commentator.
